Cover art adapted from item 12

[01] [Astrid Proll] Freedom for Astrid Proll. London: Friends of Astrid Proll, First Edition. 4to. Paper Covers. Pamphlet. Fair. [2], 13pp, [1], original paper covers, n.d. but probably 1979. Covers browned and lightly water stained, especially to head of upper cover and lower cover, small tear to head of upper cover, numbers in ink to lower cover. Text lightly stained and slightly crinkled, ring mark to page one, otherwise fairly clean. Proll was a member of the RAF, who escaped to the UK but was eventually arrested here and returned to Germany to fight her case. She was sentenced to five and half years, but released immediately as she had already served over two-thirds of that time in German and UK prisons. BL and LSE only in COPAC [003017] £30.00

[02] [Baader-Meinhof Group] Gesuchte Personen die der Baader-Meinhof-Bande anghoren, mit ihr in Verbindung stehen oder sie Unterstützen. No Place: No Publisher, First Edition. 4to. Unbound. Broadside. Good. Single sided printed broadside, approximately 220mm x 300mm in size, n.d. c.1973? Lightly browned, creased from old folds, couple of tiny nicks to left hand side. The pictures of Baader, Meins, Ensslin and Raspe have been crossed through in red (presumably when they had been arrested rather than when they died as Meinhof had died in 1976, though Moller had been arrested in 1972). Text roughly translates as "Wanted persons who belong to the Baader-Meinhof gang, communicate with them or support them", with "Beware of firearms!" to foot. Meins died on hunger strike in 1974, the other three all died in dubious circumstances at Stammheim prison in October 1977 [003001] £125.00

[03] [Football Ticket Trade Catalogue] Catalogo De Propaganda De Futbol 1944-45. Valencia: Ortega, 1944. First Edition. 8vo (Oblong). Card Covers. Catalogue. Good. [18]p, original card covers, approximately 275mm x 185mm. Covers lightly foxed, slightly bumped to edges, title lightly foxed, the last page of tickets also lightly foxed, otherwise fairly bright and clean. With sixteen (four pages with four tickets) examples tipped in. Trade catalogue for a printer, offering football ticket printing in four 'classes' of varying types [002996] £125.00

[04] [German Political Ephemera] Mehr Als 80 Politische Gefangene in Der BRD Seit 8 Mai 73 Im Hungerstreik. No Place: No Publisher, 1973. First Edition. 64mo (Oblong). Unbound. Sticker. Good+. Single sided printed sticker, approximately 105mm x 70mm in size. Quite bright and clean. Probably designed to be stuck on to lamp posts. The text roughly translates as "More than 80 political prisoners in Germany have been on a hunger strike since 8 May 73. Against their social extermination = destruction by isolation they demand: Equality of political prisoners with all other prisoners! Free political information for all prisoners!". Eighty prisoners, both members of the RAF and other sympathisers, started their hunger strike on the 8th of May 1973; it ended on the 29th June 1973, "largely due to fading public and media interest" (See Passmore, The Art of Hunger: Self-Starvation in the Red Army Faction, in German History Vol. 27, No. 1, pp. 32-59) [003016] £35.00

[05] [German Political Ephemera] Rote Hilfe - Solidarität Ist Eine Waffe!. No Place: No Publisher, First Edition. 16mo. Unbound. Leaflet. Good. Single sided printed flyer, approximately 105mm x 145mm in size, no publisher (probably Rote Hilfe), place, or date (?late 1970's). Very slightly browned, otherwise quite bright and clean. The text roughly translates as "Red Aid - Solidarity is a Weapon!". Rote Hilfe was originally affiliated with the German Communist Party between 1924 and 1936, and in 1975 was reconstituted as a support network for prisoners, especially for those like imprisoned members of the RAF [003015] £25.00

[07] [London Mechanics' Institution] Membership Card for London Mechanics' Institution. ill. Papworth, T.B. London: No Publisher, 1854. First Edition. 64mo (Oblong). Unbound. Membership Card. Good. Single sided engraved membership card, approximately 110mm x 75mm in size. Lightly browned, horizontal crease towards head just above the start of the lettering, old repair to reverse across head, with name in ink to reverse. An annual membership card, dated September 1854 to September 1855, for a Mr. G. Barnard. Engraved by S. [amuel] Mitan after a drawing by T.B. Papworth. The London Mechanics' Institution was founded by George Birkbeck in 1823, with the support of Jeremy Bentham and J.C. Hobhouse amongst others, it was later named Birkbeck Literary and Scientific Institution in 1866, and then Birkbeck College, and is now part of the University of London [002995] £60.00

[08] [Patent Roller Pump] Improved Method of Raising Water, By Rangeley, Dixon & Co.'s Patent Roller Pump.
 London: Thorowgood, F., First Edition. Elephant Folio.
 Unbound. Broadside. Good. Printed single sided broadside, approximately 325mm x 415mm in size, n.d. c. 1818. Lightly browned and foxed, lightly creased from old folds, minor chipping to edges, especially bottom edge, but without any loss to images or text. The printer was almost certainly F. [rederick] Thorowgood, printing from 42 Wood Street, Cheapside, London (fl. 1810-1834, see BBTI). Rangeley, Doxson and Co. were based in Stone, Staffordshire, and their partnership was dissolved in 1821 (Grace's Guide). Not in COPAC. According to the manufacturers "the advantage of this pump consists in its convenience and simplicity ... being wrought by a rotary, instead of a reciprocating motion, (as in the common pump) whereby it is constantly at work, raising water with a continual stream, and not subject to loss of power and waste of water ... which renders it pre-eminently adapted to the draining of mines". They go on to add that "as a fire engine, it will be found of great use, requiring little force, being in a small compass and portable form ... It is adapted to water-works, breweries, distilleries, soap manufactories ... also for a forcing pump to supply cisterns or reservoirs for water closets ... It is also capable of being constructed into a water mill" [002991] £325.00

[09] [Political Ballad] A New Hunting Song. London: [Charles] Paul, ?First Edition. 4to. Unbound. Ballad. Fair. Single sided printed broadside ballad, approximately 190mm x 250mm, n.d.

c.1846? Brownd, creased, damp stained and heavily chipped with loss, though not affecting text, though the imprint has lost a few letters due to being poorly printed. The printer was [Charles] Paul, located at 18 Great St Andrew St. Seven Dials (as here), noted as fl. 1845-1848 in the BBTI. Interesting ballad, pro-Bonaparte and anti-Wellington, later mentioning the Chartists Feargus O'Connor and John Frost in a favourable light, and in between those two, Prince Albert, who the balladeer notes "got a blooming Queen to dandle on his knee, with thirty thousand pounds a year paid from this country". A commonly used title, (so perhaps a well known tune), including several other political or election related ballads, but seemingly unrecorded, with no copies of this ballad in COPAC or in the Broadside Ballads Online at the Bodleian catalogue [003010] £50.00

[10] [Reward Notice] Two Guineas Reward. Whereas Considerable Damage Has Been Done to the Plantations Upon the Chopwell Estate Belonging to Thomas Thorp, Esq., By Some Evil-Disposed Person or Persons Cutting and Carrying Away Several Valuable Trees Growing Thereon. Newcastle: W. & J. Bell, 1847. First Edition. 4to (Oblong). Disbound. Ephemera. Good+. Printed single sided reward notice, approximately 280mm x 225mm in size. Browned, otherwise clean. The printers were the brothers W. [illiam] and J.[ohn] Bell, the "sons of Thomas Bell, commencing business in 1839 in the premises occupied by their father and grandfather for nearly 50 years. While in partnership the two were extensive second-hand book dealers issuing annual catalogues, that for 1843 having 136 pages. After their separation in 1848 W.J. Bell's business was greatly reduced, his advertisements stressing stationary as his main line of trade" (Hunt, The Book Trade in Northumberland and Durham to 1860, page 13). Reward notice's were issued earlier in the nineteenth century by private associations, which, preceding the statutory compulsion to establish a police force, "were private institutions, made up of local property-owners, who came together to form an organization and raise a fund in order to find, arrest, and prosecute, at common expense, offenders against themselves and their property" (Philips in Hay and Snyder, Policing and Prosecution in Britain 1750-1850, page 118).
