[47] Motler, L.A. Soviets for the British - A Plain Talk to Plain People. London: The Workers' Socialist Federation, First Edition. 12mo. Paper Covers. Pamphlet. Good. 11pp, [3], original paper covers, n.d. c.1918. Covers brownded, internally clean. Interesting largely pro-Soviet pamphlet by Motler, who only a year earlier had published probably the earliest Anarchist denunciation of the Bolshevik revolution in his paper Satire, in December 1917 (issue thirteen), "The Russian Revolution is running a-gley. These little things happen when the people permit new rulers to pose as their saviours, instead of saving

themselves by running the country on their own" (Satire, issue 13, page two). By now he had decided that the "Soviet system is the nearest way out at present. We need not grope in the dark. The idea is here; it only needs to be pushed here and now until the revolution comes along at last" (page 11).
Uncommon, BL and Warwick only in COPAC [002465] £45.00
